

NEW SPECIAL EDUCATION TEACHER FELLOWSHIP

WHERE EARLY CAREER SPECIAL EDUCATORS BUILD STUDENT-CENTERED PRACTICE

SELF's New Special Education Teacher Fellowship is a year-long cohort experience for early career special educators. Through hands-on training, peer community, and personalized coaching, Fellows build the practice and purposeful compliance skills that move students forward.

Impact

- ✓ 100% of partners agree that NSTF Fellows increased instructional quality across their school.
- ✓ 90% Fellows retained in the classroom

Because of NSTF, I completely shifted the way I lead IEP meetings. Now my meetings are shorter, less emotional for families, and I walk in confident and prepared to advocate for my students.

— NSTF Fellow

NSTF made me more intentional and consistent about using data to guide my instructional and behavioral decisions — it changed how I show up for my students every day.

— NSTF Fellow

Program Elements

Fellowship Training Series

A 2-day kickoff and five in-person sessions exploring instructional strategies, IEP development, behavior systems, and the compliance skills that serve every student.

Asynchronous Learning Modules

Go deeper between sessions through focused, self-paced modules designed to build foundational knowledge in IEP development, accommodations, modifications, and more.

Monthly Office Hours

Drop-in support every month for Fellows to ask questions, get feedback, and problem-solve in real time with a SELF coach.

Classroom Observations (Add-On)

Optional classroom observations with real-time coaching, aligned to your instructional coach's priorities and your students' needs.

Contact djasper@selfnola.org to reserve seats for your teachers!

